Creating Community: Changing the World of Mental Health

Clubhouse International is the global network of Clubhouse model programs working to end social and economic isolation for people living with mental illness. We are a membership organization comprised of a small team of employees and a volunteer Board of Directors partnering with more than 300 organizations and thousands of like-minded people from across the world.

The people of Clubhouse International come from a variety of unique personal backgrounds, and we represent many cultures, ethnicities, races, religious viewpoints, and geographic locations. In this diversity we find rich and wonderful human experience. We embrace the opportunities diversity provides us to continuously learn from each other and to identify ways in which we can help make all our colleagues, volunteers and friends feel safe, supported, and welcomed in our Clubhouse International community.

We are disappointed and concerned whenever we learn about intolerance or hate in any form. We are saddened by and stand in opposition to racism, antisemitism, xenophobia, discrimination of religious beliefs and sexual-orientation, and the many other forms of bigotry and social exclusion towards minorities, people of different abilities, and cultural differences.

At the center of our work and vision is the belief in the value and potential of every human being and powerful benefits of belonging to a welcoming and inclusive community.
